

Incoming AHS students welcomed into the fold

The CMC Vellore community welcomed the new Allied Health Sciences (AHS) students (degree and diploma) into the fold with the Interprofessional Foundation Programme.

Members of the faculty spoke to the students about the ethos and heritage of CMC, and the privileges and challenges of the AHS training. There was enthusiastic participation by the students in the interactive activities such as role-play to focus on the significance of their roles in healthcare. The programme stressed upon the importance of values such as integrity and honesty, professional skills like goal-setting and time management, and the importance of compassion and care in the healing ministry.

There were also discussions on teamwork, interpersonal relations, professional excellence, communication and leadership skills, and motivation and coping strategies. Read the full story
